

To Return to Table of Contents Press Back Button in your web browser menu bar

Dedication

Roger C. Pearson Professor of Plant Pathology

The New York grape producers showed the respect they had for Dr. Pearson when they asked him to help explore options for organic grape culture in New York.

Faculty across several disciplines also showed their faith and respect by responding to his request that they participate in this study.

New York and the world lost a valuable and productive scientist, and we faculty at Cornell lost a very close friend when Roger died. We respectfully dedicate this volume to the memory of Roger C. Pearson

To Return to Table of Contents Press Back Button in your web browser menu bar